NSU site takes shape
